What are the benefits of a bath screen?

A bath screen can be a practical and chic feature in your bathroom.

Bath screens are much easier to clean compared to shower curtains. You can learn the best ways to clean your shower screen here.

Plus, a glass screen will create a sense of light to open up even the smallest bathroom. Find more ways to make a small bathroom look and feel bigger in our shower enclosure buying guide.

Before you buy a bath screen, it's important to consider the size of the bathroom and how easy it will be to get in and out of the bath. If you have any questions, our experts are happy to talk through your options with you. Find out how to get in touch here.

MB9 Three Panel Folding Bath Screen

A black fixed bath screen is shown in a shower area with white subway tiles. The screen is a single panel that is fixed to the wall and extends over the bathtub. It has a sleek, minimalist design with a black frame. The showerhead and faucet are also visible in the background.

What are the different types of bath screens?

Single Panel Screen

This type of bath screen has one single pane of glass that can either be fixed, or moved with a hinge or pivot bracket.

A fixed bath screen is one of the most popular styles, where the screen is fixed to the wall and over the bath. The simplicity of the design means you get a sleek look. Plus, the fixed positioning and minimal features also make cleaning easy.

Some single panel screens can be opened outwards on a hinge. This allows for greater access to the bath or shower. An alternative space-saving option is a pivot screen. This mechanism allows the door to open inwards and outwards.

Single panel screens are often frameless, yet our new Black Range offers a selection of black framed bath screens for single panels. The black framing displays the screen in a striking and stylish way. Not only this, the elegant design will draw attention to the shower. View the Black Range here.

All MERLYN single panel screens are available in square and curved designs.

Two Panel Screen

This type of screen has two connecting glass panels that are attached in the centre of the screen. The second panel can be opened via a hinge or pivot. Two paneled screens can have either one fixed and one moving panel or both panels can be moving.

If you're tight for space, a hinged fixed screen is a smart and stylish option. The additional second panel adds extra protection against splashes, whilst acting like a shower door that can open 180 degrees, making it easier to get in and out the bath. First panel can be fixed or folding.

We also offer two-panel screens with pivot actions. This means the screen will turn both inward and outwards for easy access.

For a look that's both functional and stylish in your bathroom, our minimalistic Black Range creates a beautiful silhouette feature.

All two panel screens come with the option of square or curved designs.

Three Panel Screen

As the name suggests, this bath screen is made of three separate panes of glass. The screen has similar benefits to two-panel screens, but the extra panel offers an eye-catching contemporary look to any bathroom.

The three panel screens that we offer have a folding panel feature.

If you're finding it difficult to choose between the two options. A panel that folds neatly away into the wall when not in use could be a smart choice, as it will help to save space in smaller bathrooms.

Four-Fold Panel Screen

The ultimate space-saver in our extensive range of bath screens is the four-fold panel screen.

The narrow and streamlined individual panes of glass fold away neatly and horizontally flush to the wall. This means you don't have to compromise on space and can enjoy a relaxing and comfortable bathroom experience.
